Land Nears, Adventurer Gets Excited

This is the 13th in a series of articles by William Willis, 61-year-old New Yorker who sailed alone on a raft 6,400 miles across the Pacific from Peru to Pago Pago. Today: First sight of land.

NEW YORK (NANA)—Tomorrow I will see land! Many times, while crossing the vast emptiness of the Pacific, I had wondered what they would be like: the first land and first voices. Now at least one of these events was almost here.

Since leaving Peru on the 6,400-mile voyage to Samoa, it would be the first land I'd seen in 88 days. Sailing to Flint Island had not been part of my plan. Alone on my raft, I had carefully moved well south of the Galapagos Islands off the coast of South America, and then 100 miles or more north of the Marquesas Islands, at the 4,300-mark on my voyage. To me, islands represented danger—the peril of coral reefs which could break the Seven Little Sisters to pieces, and perhaps maroon me. Besides, Flint, my charts showed, was only an uninhabited speck in the vast ocean.

Short of Water

But I had been moving steadily toward Flint in spite of myself. Since taking a southwesterly course, after passing the Marquesas, I had run into frequent calms. While the sultry air oppressed me and the raft snapped back and forth in the dead swells, I moved at the mercy of the South Equatorial Current. The Humboldt Current had been left far behind by now—and traveled only about 10 miles in a whole day. In this way, Flint had come into my path.

To avoid the island cleanly, I would have had to steer well northward, and this would have taken me away from Samoa, which lay to the south.

But, in spite of the dangers, I felt three internal forces driving me to Flint. I'd been on very short fresh-water supply rations since August 6, when I lost most of my supply. Drinks of sea water had helped a great deal, and my health had remained sound. But still, I would have liked to drink all the fresh water I could, to fill my cans and basins and probably even one of my two kerosene drums. The fuel was of little use since my stoves had failed.

Then, perhaps I could also get some coconuts. After the long spell on a diet of cereal, sugar and fish, I dreamed of food—but not of steaks, as one might expect. My thoughts lingered on fresh fruit, especially apples and grapes. This hunger proved so powerful that, since returning home, I've been eating two pounds of Macintosh apples daily.

The final urge that drove me to Flint was most elusive, but probably the most important of all. Since starting the voyage on June 22, my world had been made up of sea and sky—of seemingly endless space—with my raft always in the middle. Conscious connections with the rest of the world had long since left me. I simply wanted to see some land again—to see if it really existed.

It would be a risky proposition. Flint lies at 11 degrees, 26 minutes, south latitude, and 151 degrees, 48 minutes, west longitude—a position some 2,000 miles from Hawaii, 2,500 miles from New Zealand, 3,500 miles from San Francisco, and 5,200 miles from Peru. By the course I'd followed, my sailing directions—the official nautical guide—said there were two inland lagoons from which I could draw usable, even though brackish water.

But the directions warned me, the island was surrounded by a steep coral reef extending 900 yards into the sea at the northern end, which I was approaching. According to the sailor's guide, only a single narrow boat channel offered a clear passage to the beach, and it was on the eastern side, while I would approach from the west. Yet, perhaps I could find a gap in the reef where I needed one. I would be taking a big chance

District Faces Great Upsurge In Population

BY LAWRIE JOSLIN

Population of the Victoria area is expected to double itself within the next 30 years, with the population of Saanich exceeding that of the city within 20 or 25 years, according to a report prepared by J. W. Wilson, Vancouver town planning consultant.

The 64-page report, released officially today by the Capital Region Planning Board for whom it was prepared, is one of the most interesting and exhaustive surveys ever made of the Victoria area's past, present and anticipated future development.

The area population is expected to grow at the steady rate of some 3,000 to 4,000 a year.

Growth of the capital region, according to the report, is likely to change present transportation patterns between the island and mainland and see wide use of helicopter travel.

Street traffic problems are expected to increase along with further rapid urbanization of rural areas.

Most of the new residential development is expected to occur in Saanich because Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt have only a limited amount of space available.

The population of Saanich may be greater than Victoria's in 20 or 25 years if present trends continue, the report states.

RAPID EXPANSION

Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt "are expected to experience steady but moderate growth, whereas Saanich can anticipate even more rapid expansion than it has during the past few years," the report declares.

"Central Saanich and the unorganized areas will probably also have an accelerated growth, though not to the same extent as Saanich," the report continues.

There are now 48,000 breadwinners working in the capital city region, according to the report.

One out of every four in the working force is employed by some branch of the provincial or federal government. Barring major changes in administrative policies the civil service is expected to provide an expanding source of employment in the region.

This degree of dependence on government employment, the report states, makes the Victoria area second only to

The Ottawa area where about 32 per cent of the labor force works for government.

The large number of persons drawing incomes from investments is another important factor in the economic structure of the capital city region.

CONTINUING INFLEX

"It is obvious therefore that the future of the capital region depends primarily on the development of both Canada and British Columbia and on the activities and policies of their government," the report asserts.

To a less extent it depends on a continuing influx of retired people, on tourist trade, and on manufacturing industries which, directly or indirectly, utilize nearby raw materials," the report explains.

It goes on to explain that forest products, shipbuilding and other industries, along with agriculture, will continue to play a major role in the economic development of this area.

Some 16 per cent of the capital region's 123,000 people are more than 65 years old, compared with 11 per cent for B.C. and 8 per cent for Canada, the report says. In 1951, some 13 per cent of all males were listed as retired, compared with 9 per cent for B.C.

The average family in this area comprises three persons, smaller than the B.C. average of 3.3 persons. Related to this is the relatively low proportion of school children which is 18 per cent compared with 21 per cent for the whole province.

Report Described 'Mainly History'

The Wilson report on the capital planning region is an "excellent first step," but "it's mainly history," representatives of Greater Victoria municipal councils said last night.

"The question is, where do we go from here?" commented Reeve F. G. Norris of Oak Bay. That question may be answered when Brahm Wiesman, planning director of the Capital Region Planning Board, using the Wilson survey as a basis, completes a master plan for future development of the region. This is expected to take six or seven months.

Acting Mayor Frank Mullner and Reeves of the three adjacent municipalities agreed James W. Wilson of the Lower Mainland Regional Planning Board had done "a first-class job" in his survey of the capital region.

SOME DOUBTS

There were some doubts, however, about his predictions of population growth.

"I think he flatters Saanich," said Reeve Joseph Casey of Mr. Wilson's prediction that by 1978 Saanich will have surpassed Victoria in population.

He said Saanich currently is gaining about 3,000 people a year, with 600 new homes built in 1954.

CLOSE TO CAPACITY

Reeve Norris said he thought Mr. Wilson's forecast of a population of 19,200 for Oak Bay by 1981 was close to the municipality's total capacity.

New subdivisions now being planned will house about 4,500 people, he said. The maximum population, unless present properties are resubdivided, would be about 20,000.

Reeve A. C. Wurtelle of Esquimalt saw a "fine basis for future planning," but he said he found no reference to Esquimalt's parks.

He said Mr. Wilson apparently had overlooked Saxe Point Park, Memorial Park and Bullen Park.

Pet Dogs Newest Victims Of Oil Covering Beaches

Greater Victoria citizens were asked yesterday to keep pet dogs and cats away from oil-covered beaches as the danger of death for birds and some animals continued.

Edward Hayward, SPCA inspector, said he had received reports that two dogs were poisoned by the thick oil seum which has forced the "mercy killing" of more than 3,000 waterfowl since it appeared Wednesday.

The dogs got heavy fuel oil on their paws and swallowed some of the oil while cleaning themselves, Mr. Hayward said. The pets became sick, but both lived, he reported.

Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Colonist spokesmen said yesterday the federal government is expected to announce within the next 10 days or two weeks its decision on removal of Ripple Rock.

The chances of the government deciding to proceed with the removal project are said to be "pretty good" and it is predicted that the method "will lean toward tunneling."

Ripple Rock, in Seymour Narrows at the northeast shoulder of Vancouver Island, is a menace to navigation and has claimed several ships as its victims. Previous attempts to remove the rock, in the racing waters of the channel, have failed.

Sloan Gives Union Award

Freight Subsidy Urged for Grain

OTTAWA (CP)—The politically touchy proposal of a subsidy on western grain freight rates was made Monday by Chief Justice Gordon Sloan of British Columbia in awarding non-operating railway employees a $7,000,000-a-year segment of their fringe benefit demands.

The chief justice, cabinet-appointed arbitrator in the long dispute that threatened a general rail strike last summer, gave the 145,000 workers a fraction of what they asked, granting only partially two of their four requests.

BLAMES RATES

He said the railways cannot afford to meet their demands in the face of declining revenues, and he blamed the decline in large part on "distortion and imbalance" of the freight rate structure caused by the low "Crow's Nest Pass" rates on export grain moving through the West.

He suggested a subsidy to spread "some fair share at least of this burden" across the national economy.

Increased freight rates now are not the answer to rising railway costs, the arbitrator said. These have been used to cover previous postwar increases in the wage bill of the carriers.

MAKE IT WORSE

But with competition stiffening, Chief Justice Sloan said, higher rates would probably only "tend to increase the

Huge Forest Plan Due for Kitimat

New Highway, Pulp Mill Estimated at $65,000,000

A huge forestry project which will include a $65,000,000 pulp mill at Kitimat and a highway from Kitimat to Terrace has been given conditional approval by the provincial government.

Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers announced yesterday that an application for a forest management license by Kitimat Pulp and Paper Co. has been approved.

"This is a preliminary step," Mr. Sommers said, "looking to the establishment at Kitimat of a newsprint and pulp mill to cost in the order of $65,000,000."

He said the government and the Kitimat Pulp and Paper Company are negotiating toward co-operation in the building of the Kitimat-Terrace highway. Kitimat is at present a coastal town accessible only by sea and air.

The Kitimat Pulp and Paper Co. is believed to be a joint company formed by the Aluminum Company of Canada and the Powell River Pulp and Paper Co.

MUCH CONSIDERATION

Mr. Sommers said approval was given to the application "after much consideration."

The company will now proceed with surveys of the forest areas, after which it will submit a management plan. The minister said the surveys will probably begin in 1955 and will not be completed until early in 1956.

The final contract and the decision regarding erection of the mill will be dependent upon the outcome of the surveys and upon the market and economic conditions prevailing at the time," Mr. Sommers said.

If the company's working plan is approved, it is possible the huge pulp and paper mill may be in operation by 1958, some officials estimate.

ALONG SAME LINES

The negotiations on the Kitimat-Terrace highway may be along the same lines as those conducted early this year with Alaska Pine and Cellulose, B.C. Forest Products and MacMillan & Bloedel for roads on the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

The three companies agreed to build public roads from Port Alberni to Ucluelet and from Jordan River to Port Renfrew in exchange for management license rights.

The minister may work out an arrangement with Kitimat Pulp and Paper whereby the first part of the Kitimat-Terrace road, that part running through the forest management license area, may be built by the company and made public. The government may undertake to build the rest itself. The road would be about 40 miles long.

Power for the pulp mill may be supplied directly from Alcan's huge generating plant at Kemano which now feeds the electrolysis aluminum smelters at the Kitimat aluminum plant.

Gasline Deal Likely

A Vancouver newspaper said last night an agreement among four gas and pipeline companies to enable construction of a $400,000,000 natural-gas pipeline from the B.C. Peace River area to New Mexico is to be signed within two days.

The line would take gas from Fort St. John, B.C., to the San Juan basin in New Mexico.

Shares in B.C. natural-gas companies were in heavy demand on the Vancouver Stock Exchange yesterday, after radio commentator Walter Winchell advised his listeners Sunday night to buy B.C. gas.

Cash Paid For Water In Milk

VANCOUVER (CP)—Basil Gardom, president of the Independent Milk Producers' Co-operative Association, said here Monday that farmers have been paid as much as $200 a month for water they added to milk.

Mr. Gardom was testifying before a Royal Commission inquiry into the milk industry. The hearings resumed Monday in Vancouver after Fraser valley sittings.

Milk cans labelled "Jersey milk, 4.1 per cent," deceive the consumer, Mr. Gardom said.

"In approximately a few years," Mr. Gardom said, "a family of large dairy farmers, without complaint from their dairy, each added a large quantity of water for which they received separately as high as $200 a month for the water."

Victim 'Poor'

John Campbell Pettitrew, of 1171 Rockland Avenue, was in poor condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital at press time, suffering from multiple injuries sustained at 8:15 a.m. Monday at Yates and Cook Streets.

Pettitrew, 70, suffered multiple fractures of the left leg and right hip, a possible fractured left arm, face and scalp lacerations.

He was struck by a car driven by Michael E. Loughheed, 214 Menzies, police said.

Pedestrian in Hospital After Being Hit by Car

Henry Newton, 62, of 1271 Walnut, suffered chest and hip injuries when he was knocked down by a car about 5:30 p.m. Sunday at Yates and Government. He was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Police said the driver, Charles E. Stockell, 2725 Cadboro Bay Road, was turning from Yates onto Government at the time of the mishap.

Minor injuries were suffered by three persons when a car struck a pole on the Malahat about 400 yards from Shawnigan Lake cut-off shortly after midnight Saturday.

Treated for cuts and bruises were Miss Jean Bell, 331 Huntington; Ted Wagner, 427 Government; and David Allison, 331 Huntington.

COLLISION WITH POLE
Passenger Arnold Chudy, 3411 Salisbury, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for head cuts Saturday night after the car in which he was riding collided with a BCE power pole at Quadra and Talmie.

Lawrence E. Van Nes, 2281 Livingston, identified by police as the driver, said the accident occurred when he tried to avoid striking a car in front.

Robert A. Elliott, 1027 Fenn, and A. D. Watt, 774 Jasmine, were identified by police as the drivers of cars in a collision about 1:30 a.m. Sunday at the Douglas Street roundabout.

Elliott and Ruby Kaye, 1009 Hillside, a passenger in one of the cars, were treated for leg injuries.

Veterans Award Medal

A solid gold life membership medal was presented to Major T. R. Wheadon in a surprise visit to his home Sunday by Dominion, provincial and Victoria executive members of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada.

Hugh McGivern, first vice-president of the provincial command and acting president in Major Wheadon's place, said the Dominion life membership was a tribute from friends across Canada. The specially struck medal, he said, was unique in the annals of the veterans' group.

Mr. McGivern said Major Wheadon had given everything, including his health, to promote the welfare of the returned man.

The medal was presented by Jack Ellis, Dominion vice-president.

St. Louis College Mothers' Club will hold a rummage sale Saturday, November 27, at 9 a.m. at the college.

Letters Introduced Why Didn't I Die? Slaying Suspect. Asked of Brothers

CALGARY (CP)—A letter in which Donald Winslow Henderson admitted responsibility for the death of Yvonne Levesque, introduced by the Crown, was read to the jury in the trial for the 1949 murder of 22-year-old Yvonne Levesque.

Introduced by the Crown, the letter to Henderson's 73-year-old mother, Mrs. Jenny Henderson of Moose Jaw, was one of three he wrote to members of his family following the fatal beating of the former Edmonton waitress in a Calgary auto camp the night of August 11, 1949.

Henderson was arrested in San Francisco several months ago after a five-year police search.

In the letters, read into the record as the trial moved into its second week, Henderson wrote that he had been overworking and nervous before the girl's death and that, as near as he could tell, he must have gone into a violent delirium.

Then, writing that in his 32 years he had accumulated every thing that a man could want, he added:

"Now all of that is gone and, apparently, I have been responsible for Yvonne's death. What is there to live for? By being sick, I have been responsible for someone else's death and destroyed everything I have worked for."

He asked his family to see the girl's people, assure them that she had not been keeping bad company and tell them: "Something had happened which had never happened before."

Henderson, who police said disappeared after the girl had been found dead, wrote that it had occurred to him to give himself up but his whole life would be probed into and "it would not bring Yvonne back to life again."

In a letter to his brothers, he wrote that he could not "recall what happened for weeks and had to get the dates from the Winnipeg papers." But he was not, he said, a mental case.

EASIER TO TAKE
"Sorry, I guess I went under for a while. I thought I could take anything. I guess I just worked too long and too hard. Why didn't I die instead? It would have been easier to take."

One of the letters had been written from Winnipeg and another from Toronto.

Through Service Resumes

Through service on the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway was resumed Sunday after buses had to be used on part of the route for four days because of swamp and bridge troubles.

D. C. Hartley, railway superintendent, said approximately 20 carloads of gravel were needed to fill a big hole and build up the sub-grade where tracks run along the edge of a peat swamp near Stratford's Crossing, four miles north of Duncan. Each carload weighs 60 tons.

The hole was discovered after two freight cars were derailed at the spot November 9 and a crane sent to pick up the cars went off the rails two days later.

Mr. Hartley said the tracks were ready for traffic Friday evening, but at that time, a further delay was caused when waters of the Chemainus River washed out the southern approach to the bridge at Osborne Bay.

Road crews had the damage repaired by Saturday night, and trains completed trips starting Sunday, eliminating a temporary bus shuttle service between Duncan and Westholme.

Let's keep Christmas
We call friends "hard to shop for" yet who does not need love, consideration, a helping hand? We "can't feel the Christmas spirit" yet who cannot rejoice at Jesus' coming?

In December Reader's Digest, Peter Marshall, subject of A Man Called Peter, tells how we can keep Christmas' glory in our homes—and in our hearts.

Be sure to read this pertinent message on the real meaning of Christmas in December Reader's Digest. It's just one of 35 articles of lasting interest, condensed from leading magazines and current books.

Doctor Spoke of Divorce Chum Tells Murder Trial

CLEVELAND (AP)—An old school chum testified Monday that Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard spoke twice within three years of divorcing his slain wife, Marilyn, 31. The testimonial is on trial for her murder July 4.

On the second occasion, said Dr. Lester Hovesten, he warned Dr. Sheppard that his wife was a tolerant woman and that "he might actually be jumping from the frying pan into the fire."

Dr. Hovesten also testified that he saw no sign of unhappiness or discontent as a guest in the Sheppard home.

When he saw Dr. Sheppard a day after the murder, he said, the defendant wept and told him, "Why couldn't they have killed me instead of Marilyn, because Chip (his son) would need Marilyn more than he would me."

Advertisers at both the manufacturer and retailer level are becoming more analytical and selective in their choice of advertising media as business competition steadily increases.

Daily newspapers welcome the fullest investigation of their ability to SELL merchandise. No other medium can LINK the interest of the man who buys, and the man who sells, as can the daily newspaper.

Canadian Daily Newspaper Circulation

has hit a record high of more than 3,750,000 in spite of competition for the reader's interest from television, radio, magazines, week-end publications and other media.

Retail and Classified Advertising Linage

has also reached a record high.

Rest Haven Hospital Plans $20,000 More Improvements

The board of directors of the Rest Haven Hospital, which is located on the corner of 10th and 11th streets, has approved a plan for $20,000 more improvements to the hospital building.

The plan, which was presented to the board by the hospital's architect, includes the addition of a new operating room, a new X-ray department, and a new laboratory.

The board also approved a plan for the renovation of the hospital's main entrance, which will include the installation of new windows and doors.

The improvements are expected to be completed by the end of the year.

cleanest tone and the texture of your skin is its finest. When you can't do as thorough a scrubbing as you like, a scrub result to a liquid cleanser kept in your dress for just such use on the little pads designed to wipe away soil, then come to grips and are saturated with cleansing lotion.

Clean fingertips are a must if you are applying a liquid make-up and a clean puff or piece of cotton, little squares and cotton balls fit right into your compact. They are suggested for applying face powder and make rouge.

Clearness follows through in the use of clean towels and tissues for facial care too. Building up for your application of make-up use a foundation if you like. Then apply your dry rouge and face powder if you use it. The preferred mat finish is powder. Finish is obtained also with the make-up type cosmetics. For the liquid type which dries with a soft moist look, a powder foundation is not required. Frequently it brings a softer look to dry skin that is young and flatter. It is also for a casual appearance when you want to look more the outdoor girl with your towels and costume sweater costumes.

For evening the elegance of a mat finish complexion is delicate and feminine.

Experiment and you'll find there's room in your beauty ritual for both.

Canadian Fashions In New York

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian fashion designers have decided on the big plunge—an all-Canadian show in New York next month.

Organized this year, the Association of Canadian Couturiers has already exhibited in Montreal and Ottawa, but this marks its first salon outside Canada.

On December 7 at New York's Hotel Pierre, 11 designers will present 40 cruise and resort-wear outfits in the critical eye of some of the world's top fashion authorities.

The show is exclusively Canadian. It is sponsored jointly by the government, the couturiers and Canadian textile industries.

'Snow Gleaming in Moonlight' New Look for Woman's Hairdo

LONDON (CP) Women bound for a winter party this season can spray moonlight and stardust on their hair.

The latest technique in hair styling has been suggested by Mayfair hairdresser, who has a new look for women's hair. The development involves a liquid hair cream that is applied to the hair as an invisible net, adding sparkle and lustre and controlling the hair's curl.

Startlingly sheer with a lilac tone gives a glinting surface to the hair suggesting snow or ice gleaming in moonlight, says the man responsible. With a flame gown frosted with sequins, the lacquer choice might be a moonwhite shade to match the brilliant. There are other colors too.

WORD OF CAUTION

The same stylist believes that the old 100-stroke rule for the hair is not necessarily good for the hair. Too much brushing can harm the hair and scalp he says.

Among his latest curl treatment is the boomerang curl. It imitates the weapon.

A Mayfair hairdresser named Steiner calls this hairdo the boomerang curl. It is based on the balance and curve of the real boomerang and with its sudden sweep from the expected line.

For the younger woman, he brushes upward on one side with the hand parting and downward the other in a shadowy less curl. The same style for the older woman, has centre parting flatness at the centre forehead and side curls curving forward to soften the planes of the cheek.

To give the impression of longer hair, without the bother of keeping the real thing tidy, the hairdresser adds a glamor coil, a plait of real hair in any shade from moonwhite—or silver—to raven black, corn blonde and violet.

STYLED TO MATCH
The coils cost from six pence up and can be styled to match your hair, suit, gown or lip stick. Again for the older woman, it is sometimes combined with a black yashmak veil sporting two large black stars.

Tea, Bazaar On Tuesday

At a meeting of Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie Chapter 106 of the Order of the Loyalist Veterans of the Empire, Tuesday, Nov. 23, at 2 p.m. in the head quarters, there will be home cooking and miscellaneous stalls.

Donations were made to the Loyalist Veterans Fund Ontario hurricane relief fund, and retirement fund.

FOE Auxiliary Sponsors Of Bazaar, Hayseed Ball

A successful bazaar was held Monday afternoon under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the F.O.E. followed by the annual hayseed ball in the evening.

Bazaar conveners were Mrs. J. Hobday and Mrs. M. Brown. Mrs. A. McCann, president, welcomed guests and introduced Mrs. D. J. Proudfoot who opened the bazaar. Mrs. Proudfoot received a cottage of red roses.

The head tea table was covered with a hand crocheted cloth and centred with an arrangement of chrysanthemums flanked by tall red candles in crystal holders. Seated at the head table were Mrs. Proudfoot, Mrs. McCann, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Hobday, and auxiliary mother Mrs. G. Holland.

Mrs. J. Champion and Mrs. N. Hobday were in charge of tea arrangements, and serving were Mrs. S. Anderson, Mrs. L. Sullivan, Mrs. G. Johnston, Mrs. M. Leam, and Mrs. A. McKay.

In charge of stalls were Mrs. E. Thomas, tomatoes; Mrs. L. Holman, Mrs. D. Connor, wool.

Don't Brush Your Plates!
Soak Them in Polident
As Dentists Suggest

Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, hench Denture Breath. Just follow these easy rules:

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down biting ridges and may get worse.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can tear the fine mesh work of dentures and leave particles of soap or toothpaste in the denture. Denture Breath.

Behind The Glass

BY JIM TANG

IT'S A BUSY RINK. The Victoria Curling Club doesn't like to see the rink empty and has been so busy since the season started that it has had to turn away some of the best curlers in the city. It has been a busy season for the club, with many of the best curlers in the city competing in the various leagues. The club has been very successful in its efforts to attract new members and to keep the rink busy throughout the season.

PLANNING A DRIVE FOR DEER HUNTING

DRIVERS (A) AND STANDERS (B) LOCATE STANDERS DOWNING OF DRIVE AREA, 15 OR 20 YDS. FROM A WELL-USED TRAIL. SO EACH STAND HAS A GOOD VIEW OF TRAIL AND A BACKSTOP FOR BULLS. DRIVERS (C) DRIVE AREA, MOVING AGAINST TRAIL, NOW, DRIVE AHEAD OF EACH OTHER, MOVING WITH THE WIND, QUICKLY TO AVOID STAMPEDE DEER IN LARGE AREAS, KEEP EACH DRIVE SHORT SO DEER WON'T TURN ASIDE.

Rookie Goalie Shines As Bruins Beat Habs

Henry, November 17. Henderson has allowed only three goals. HAWK BLANKED. Henderson, rookie goalie, blanked the Montreal Canadiens in a 2-0 victory over the Bruins at Boston. Henderson, a 21-year-old rookie, made 11 saves and kept the Canadiens out of the net for the entire game. The Bruins scored twice in the first period, while the Canadiens were unable to get on the board. Henderson's performance was a major factor in the Bruins' victory.

Queensland XI Trails MCC By 24 Runs

BRISBANE, Australia (Reuters). The English Marylebone Cricket Club team, Monday, lost to the Queensland XI by 24 runs in the second innings. The Queensland XI scored 288 runs in the first innings, while the MCC scored 264 runs in the second. The match was a close contest, with the Queensland XI leading throughout.

Bays Brighten Hopes By Downing Dockers

Victory moved the Bays to within two points of defending champion Mount View in the tight race. Mount View has completed its schedule but the Bays can force a tie and a sudden-death playoff for the other berth in the final by defeating the Dockers in the only game scheduled. The Bays' victory over the Dockers was a significant one, as it moved them into a position where they could challenge for the championship.

Victoria's outdoor sports schedule Sunday was wiped out because of weather conditions. A heavy rain and strong wind prevented the various sports events from taking place. The organizers had to postpone the events until a more favorable day.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down. Take things easy — watch your diet, get more rest. It's still good advice. But these days you can face fifty with many interesting and active years ahead. Active, that is, if you can avoid backache and the "tired-out" feeling, due to kidney and bladder disorders, that often develop around that age. For more than 60 years DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order, helping them to feel better, to work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are approaching fifty, or past it, DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS may help you, too. You can depend on DODD'S.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Vancouver is eagerly seeking a Coast Baseball League franchise and is just about ready to be taken in by baseball's "snake game."

Suffering from lack of fans everywhere and with no prospect of conditions improving, baseball is getting by through craftily putting one city against another, appealing to civic pride in order to unload bankrupt clubs on the larger population centres.

Professional baseball is an asset to any community and in the smaller centres it is possible only through a community effort with some concessions from the government. But baseball needs the larger cities where they need baseball and it's a bit silly the way some of them are scrambling for major league franchises. AAA franchises, Kansas City for instance, fought hard to purchase the St. Louis Cardinals franchise for several millions of dollars. They got a major league franchise but they didn't get a major league team. In less than five years they are probably coming for a buyer unless they should be lucky enough to get a winner. There is no reason to believe Kansas City will be any different than Philadelphia, which after this year 1955 the A's in action for a while.

And when it comes back to Vancouver, which is being asked for a great deal of money before a club which has lost about $300,000 in the past three seasons will consider moving there. All Vancouver has to do is wait.

Coast League baseball is scheduled for Vancouver if not by next summer, 1956, or at the very latest 1957. The Coast League has a lot of three very strong franchises and it is the certainty that it will lose Los Angeles and San Francisco to the major leagues in the next few years. A lot of the coast has lost Los Angeles gets a major league franchise but they didn't get a major league team. In less than five years they are probably coming for a buyer unless they should be lucky enough to get a winner. There is no reason to believe Kansas City will be any different than Philadelphia, which after this year 1955 the A's in action for a while.

Four tickets in Saturday's Grey Cup final between the Montreal Alouettes and the Edmonton Eskimos have been allocated to the Victoria Canadian Football Union. Any Vancouverian who can be in Toronto for the game and needs a ticket ($5 each) is asked to leave his name and phone number with the Victoria Canadian secretary, Mrs. Mackay, or the writer. . . . Weightlifter Doug Hepburn deserves nothing but censure for his ill-considered plan that Vancouver is for the birds. I'm sorry I was born there. . . . If it was a revolution, Vancouver is now probably safer. Hepburn, who received $150 a month to act as Mayor Hume's bodyguard so that he could represent Canada in the British Empire Games, is apparently not out because the city didn't hand him a gymnasium, but the UBC rowing crew, winner of eight, hasn't made any complaint about not getting a private lake. . . . Victoria City intends to protest to the B.C. Football Commission over the decision of the Coast Soccer League not to award the two points when St. Andrews failed to put in an appearance on October 30. The club had been undefeated until Saturday, but when North Shore made the trip to Victoria by plane, it was time to take action. Clubs have been expressly forbidden to chance air travel but the Shores gambled. Had they not made it it might have been the end for the city. Loss of another game and lessening of player and fan interest might have been too much. . . . John Newton, former Victoria rugby star, has taken up Canadian football this year and Saturday was credited with being the best for his team when UBC Thunderbirds surprised by holding University of Toronto to a 5-3 score and actually being unlucky not to win. . . . But Hudson, another city athlete attending UBC, also played in the games with his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hudson among the victors in the crowd. . . . Unless Gump Worsley gets better in a hurry, Vancouver Canucks could be seriously hurt by the loss of goalie John Bower, recalled by the New York Rangers to fill in for Worsley. Without Bower, the Canucks Rangers to give in Worsley. Without Bower, the Canucks Rangers to give in Worsley. Without Bower, the Canucks Rangers to give in Worsley.

Profitable Week End for City Rifleman

Even though he left one turkey with his father in Nanaimo, Lorne Harper, 1142 Gladstone Avenue, still returned home from a week-end shooting trip with 48 turkeys and this husky buck. Using a .22 Hornet on Sunday, Harper picked up seven birds in a Nanaimo turkey shoot. He switched to a .30-06 Monday morning and added venison to the bill of fare after one hour's hunting near the Hub city.

Confident Alouette Backers Eye Esks' Injuries, Statistical Flaws

BY DON HANRIGHT, Canadian Press Staff Writer EDMONTON (U.P.)—Edmonton Eskimos probably will enter the Grey Cup as the lowest western conference underdogs in many a moon.

"The Eskimos have won every game this year they have absolutely had to win. The Grey Cup is a game they showed against Winnipeg they can play outstanding team football. I think they'll do it next Saturday."

Esks, who clash with the powerful Montreal Alouettes in the Canadian football final at Toronto Saturday, have enough injuries and statistical flaws to warrant confident betting from Big Four enthusiasts.

Edmonton barely topped the Western Interprovincial Football Union while finishing at the bottom of the five team, 16 game statistical heap in yards passing, 1,798; first downs on passing, 69; yards on kickoff returns, 686; average kickoff return, 19.6 yards; total yards in punts returns, 742; and average punt return 61 yards.

ONLY THIRD BEST: Their pass-completion average of 49.2 per cent was only third best during the regular season schedule and their eight meagre touchdowns passed by the likes of the BC Lions, who won one game.

Against pass-happy Montreal quarterback Sam Fritchey, who racked up 434 yards through the air in beating Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Big Four final Saturday, Eskimos don't seem to be too promising as the team to return with the WIFU's first Grey Cup since 1948 Calgary Stampede's won that year.

But Eskimos coach Frank Pop Iv might have the last laugh. Most of the features over the period when the former Oklahoma man was charging his injury-plagued squad through modest use of the split T, the club's most outstanding offensive feature.

Ivy beams on his own sheet of the statistics, where it shows his club topping the following departments: Times carried in rushing, 575; total yardage rushing, 3,119; first down rushing, 169; 3 and 4 yard rushing, 12; ## Western, Oriental Creations Liven Arts Centre Exhibits

BY INA D. D. LUTHOFF

One hardly knows where to begin there is so much variety in the various exhibits.

The New York City Phil

Society has a show of wood cuts, engravings, etchings and lithographs in color. They are all powerful works by hand and standing artists. Alexander W.

Hayler, Adja Yankers, Anton

Six Days' Motion Golden

Gate, Patricia, Arthur, Floyd, Lygia, Anna, Ema, Weddige, George, Mary, Danny, Peter and others.

ISLAND ARTIST

John Andrews, a Vancouver artist, is represented by a large exhibition of line cuts in color. Powerful in design and good in color pattern, her work is technically sound though some times too insistent in its em phasis of shape.

Much of her more recent work which is based chiefly on religious themes, shows the greater sensitivity and more color used in her work. The textural quality of her work is a not to be missed. This is a fine example of Chinese works.

Professor H. H. of Furukawa

University, living in New York is represented by a large group of paintings. His work when shown in New York had a fa vorable reception. This Chinese artist's studies of birds, plants and figures are direct and vital images used with economy, but expressive much. The landscape studies are less convincing.

On loan from J. P. E. Klaverwinkel, of Victoria is a magnifi cent Chinese painting on silk that came out of an emperor's palace. It is in the best tradition of its period and is itself well worth a visit to the gallery.

ANCIENT GATES

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. B. Kei have and four business iron gates that are extremely old and very rare. The Chinese no longer create these "pictures in iron" as they are called. A

Western collector spent six months in China obtaining them. The "pictures" represent the four seasons.

A Buddhist scroll comes from

Mongolia where a wall hanging in gold and colors is titled "Lan dust Paradise. Woodcut and ancient portraits complete this comprehensive collection.

All great religions are repre sented at Asia.

Charlie Arnold Wins In Motorcycle Grind

Skilled riding of Charlie Arnold won him the Brentwood

Trophy Sunday in grueling Victoria Motorcycle Club trials de scribed by riders as more of a cross-country swim.

Eleven starters tested their skill against the clock and against a rough course, cold, wind-whipped rain and in places, thick mud.

The riders were checked five times along the course for time losing a point for every minute late or early at a check point. It is only when she is in love

Car looters were active in the city during the week and their pilfering ranging from tools worth $250 to a $10 bag of groceries.

Around the Island

Fog Blamed For Hunters Getting Lost

CAMPBELL RIVER—All three hunters reported missing in this area during the week end have been found.

The missing men included 19-year-old track star Terry Toback, who won a bronze medal for Canada at the British Empire Games this summer.

It was said that the hunters had been out for about 24 hours from their base at Campbell River. The track star was found and a search party entered the dense bush at about 10 p.m. Monday.

Toback and his father were found walking on a steep terrain and remained in a safe place for the night. The other hunter, James Miller, was found shortly after 10 p.m. in his car, after a search party had been sent out.

NANAIMO—Nearly 30 Vancouver Island recreation officials representing 13 communities from Zebulon to Sooke, discussed programs made by the recreation commissions in a conference here over the week end.

All activities covered by the commissions were discussed and outlined. The conference was one of nine being held throughout the province this fall.

PORT ALBERTI—The first of the daily flights from Port Alberni to Vancouver will be put into operation by Pacific Western Airlines, according to a spokesman for the company.

If traffic warrants increased flights it is expected the Port Alberni-Vancouver schedule will be increased to twice daily.

PWA was granted a license for the Class 2 service by the air transport board while an application for a license to fly scheduled runs on the west coast of the island was refused.

LAKE COWICHAN—Ernest Towle, James C. Bailey and Andrew C. Howe have been endorsed by Lake Cowichan Ratepayers Association as candidates for the December municipal elections.

Terms of office for Council members: Towle, Bailey and Adam Dickson expire this year, but owing to ill health Dr. Dickson will not return.

At a meeting of the ratepayers' association last week Nelson LaForce was elected president; Gerald Hewlett, vice-president; and Mrs. M. Child, secretary-treasurer.

NANAIMO—Frank Wilford, a member of the Town Planning Commission, has withdrawn from the aldermanic race.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Danger of flooding along the banks of Campbell River is over for the time being, Arthur Price, superintendent of John Hart power plant, said yesterday.

The river will be running high in between high tides as the first pool level has to be lowered to make room for more storage if the rains continue.

Campbell River is at present six inches higher than usual.

It was announced that 200,000 gallons of water were held back at the peak of Saturday's high tide of 14 feet six inches.

This action by B.C. Power Commission officials prevented the river from overflowing and saved the repetition of the widespread flooding that occurred in this area about the same time last year.

Logger's Leg Broken By Whack on Head

CAMPBELL RIVER—A whack on the head gave Peter Dwyer a broken leg in a logging accident at Bute Inlet Monday.

Dwyer, who worked at Prendergast Logging Company, was struck on the head by a mainline. The impact hurled him against a log, breaking his leg.

A safety helmet saved Dwyer from further injuries. He was flown to Lourdes Hospital here by a B.C. Airlines plane and his condition is reported as good.

Liquor Charges

Probation, Curfew Ordered for Youth

NANAIMO—Stiff sentences were handed out by Magistrate Lionel Beaver-Potts in police court Monday when two 17-year-old youths appeared on charges relating to liquor.

One boy charged with an offence of having liquor in his possession, was placed on probation for 18 months and had his license suspended for the same period. He was also placed under an 11 p.m. curfew.

The other youth was fined a total of $75 on a charge of drunkenness.

James Douglas, 17, was fined $50 when he was charged with an offence of having liquor in his possession.

He was fined $25 and costs for having liquor in his possession.

Unionist Urges National System

NANAIMO—Creation of a national economic council system was urged here Sunday by W. Kenney of Portland, research and education director of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CIO).

He urged renewed effort for good law, instead of the R.C. Labor Relations. All better structure for operation of the economy and declared the sensible view of economic life.

Mr. Kenney was speaking to delegates at the educational institute held here under the auspices of Canadian Congress of Labor and sponsored by Vancouver Island Labor Council.

He said labor should never forget the long-range purpose between labor and big of becoming an equal partner management and the government in planning.

Daughter Falls in Dead Faint

Island Fisherman To Hang For Shotgun Wife Slaying

NANAIMO—Alert Bay fisherman Peter Bordenuk was sentenced to hang February 22 in a dramatic finale to his week-long murder trial in Assize Court yesterday.

Bordenuk appeared calm as he heard the sentence but his 16-year-old daughter Vera fell in a dead faint from a seat on the spectators' bench.

The 41-year-old fisherman was convicted of the shotgun slaying of his common-law wife Anna Plesko at Alert Bay August 14 last.

When asked by Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane if he had anything to say before sentence was passed, Bordenuk hesitated, hung his head and seemed to be considering some words, but said nothing.

Pale and composed, Bordenuk appeared more concerned over the fainting of his daughter who had been a prosecution witness.

The young girl, who fainted as she gave evidence, carried in her father's arms to the floor of the court, was assisted to her feet by a matronly woman who was her companion.

She was not completely revived until after Bordenuk had been led from the courtroom by RCMP officers.

The long hearing which featured several dramatic incidents, closed in rapid fire order.

Crown counsel Frank S. Cunliffe, QC, and J. S. Burton for the defense were again only taken by surprise when the jury announced they had reached their verdict after 90 minutes' deliberation.

The defense sought a verdict of manslaughter. Mr. Burton said a combination of circumstances had built up in Bordenuk's mind until he did not realize what he was doing.

For the Crown, Mr. Cunliffe drew the jury's attention to Bordenuk's own words to his daughter: "You shut up or you'll get it first."

This, said Mr. Cunliffe, was the verdict.

Traffic, Parking Tightening Grip On Heart of City

Traffic and parking, "the terrible twins of modern cities," have already begun grip Victoria, but their grip is not yet as firm as it could be.

This is the conclusion of J. W. Wilson, consulting engineer, in his report prepared for the Capital Region Planning Board.

Careful planning by municipal engineers in close co-operation with the B.C. department of public works is viewed by the town planner as the best means of overcoming traffic problems before they become serious.

"Apart from Sunday afternoon, when the main highways may be temporarily congested, the traffic problems of the region are confined to the downtown area," the report says.

REGIONAL PROBLEMS

"But since they affect everyone who visits the city, and since they can sometimes be remedied by changes to the highway system far out from the centre, these problems must first be treated as regional rather than local problems," it adds.

"There are many instances in the region's major street system of jogs and bottlenecks; of dangerous and inefficient intersections; and of lack of linkage and continuity in the main network," the report states, adding as an example the lack of a continuous east-west artery across the south part of Saanich.

"A plan is the only means by which widening can be achieved without cost as buildings are demolished or altered, and by which land can be purchased in strategic places and at strategic moments," the report explains.

"No smart or facile answers can be given to street and traffic problems," the report continues. "They must be studied in conjunction with the reduction, the report says, the total amount of land under cultivation is decreasing as a result of subdivision and urban development.

"The average size of the farms has been going down at the same time the total production is increasing as a result of more intensive methods," the report explains.

Tourist Care Urged

Only through careful attention to tourist facilities, such as highways, parks, scenic resources, accommodation and community appearance, can the Victoria area continue to attract an increasing number of tourists as it has in each of the past few years.

This warning is made by J. W. Wilson, planning consultant, in his report to the Capital Region Planning Board.

He notes that Canada has been losing ground to Mexico and Europe, that United States citizens are spending more vacations in their own country, and that Canadians are spending more time and money on vacations in the U.S.

The report says a great deal of poor residential subdivision has been done in

Haphazard Development Problem Faces Area

Haphazard development currently taking place on the fringes of the capital city region is one of the great problems facing this area today, according to the report of J. W. Wilson, town planning consultant.

The report calls for development of "satisfactory communities" as a matter of municipal policy.

Soil quality, land subdivision and main roads and water supplies are factors which should guide future developments, it is stated.

Poor soil areas should be sought for development to save really productive lands. Residential subdivision of rocky areas, however, should be permitted only if the medical health officer is satisfied with arrangements for sewage disposal.

The report says a great deal of poor residential subdivision has been done in the past and is still going on, mainly because owners know nothing about subdivision.

Several remedies are suggested:

1. Use of men trained and experienced in land layout;
2. Co-operation between adjoining owners to produce larger parcels which lend themselves to better subdivision;
3. Use of relevant sections of the Town Planning Act where many owners are involved;
4. Firm control by municipalities by means of subdivision control by-law.

The report advises that the staff of the Capital Region Planning Board could give assistance to subdividers.

Disadvantages of urban sprawl outlined in the report: 1. Excessive length of road, ditch and water main which the municipality must maintain.

2. Growth of sanitation and sewer problems before there are enough people to pay for improvements.

3. Schools must serve large areas requiring pupils to walk long distances to school or be transported.

4. Poor bus service until the subdivision population is dense enough to make an adequate system economically feasible.

5. Spotty, unpredictable growth makes it difficult to obtain building loans.

6. Haphazard development is considered detrimental by underwriters of municipal bonds and the municipality will probably have to pay higher interest rates on its borrowings.

7. Sprawling development inflates land values and taxes over a wide area and results in unnecessary increases in costs to farmers and smallholders.

8. Initial promise of rural conditions and low taxes through scattered development is temporary only.

9. Haphazard development destroys the rural character of large areas.

Main responsibility for shaping future communities will inevitably fall on Saanich, Central Saanich, Sidley and the unorganized areas to the north and west, according to the report.

This will necessitate zoning plans scientifically prepared and administered and planning of public works, services and schools in accordance with these plans so that when new areas are opened up they will be well and economically served.

"The necessity for planning and control is all the greater in these areas because the chances of obtaining new industries to share the tax load do not seem very bright, so that residential and commercial properties will have to carry practically the whole burden," the report asserts.

Planning Group Ready To Assume Full-Scale Co-Ordinating Duties

The Capital Region Planning Board, established in 1951 by the provincial cabinet, "now stands ready to take on a wide variety of duties aimed at co-ordinating development of the southern tip of Vancouver Island."

Scope of the work is outlined in a report delivered this week to the Capital Region Planning Board by J. W. Wilson, executive director of the Lower Mainland Regional Planning Board.

Mr. Wilson was lent to the board to make his survey, which took seven months to complete.

Chief duties now set for the board are:

1. To prepare and maintain regional and metropolitan plans for land development, major streets and parks;
2. To assist town planning commissions in preparing, maintaining and administering plans for zoning, streets, parking and parks, including, on request, help with control of subdivisions, and help to municipal engineers in planning utilities and other facilities;
3. To assist existing inter-municipal bodies, such as school boards, water board, and civil defense control board with appropriate aspects of their work;
4. To advise on layout of new subdivisions;
5. To act as a source of information to the general public on population, economics and land resources in the region;
6. To co-operate with bodies such as the chamber of commerce in their promotional and development activities;
7. To advise and co-operate with provincial government departments, such as public works, parks and recreation, and agriculture, on studies and plans for the region;
8. To act as a standing body for the study of inter-municipal matters;
9. To act as a link between the municipalities as a group and the provincial government.

In a preface to his report, Mr. Wilson states:

"As in any democratically-governed society, the people of the capital region have their fate in their own hands. If this report stimulates them to see themselves as members of a regional family, to look ahead and to resolve to make the most of their available resources, it will have achieved its purpose."

Mr. Wilson said the report is like the general examination in medicine which precedes more detailed diagnosis and prescription.

"It is just as necessary for good planning as for good medicine," he said.

Mr. Wilson is a graduate in city and regional planning from the University of North Carolina. Before studying there, he graduated in civil engineering from Glasgow University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The Capital Region Planning Board comprises one member appointed by the provincial government and one member appointed by each of the four participating Greater Victoria municipalities. Municipal engineers are advisory members of the board.

The board had no funds with which to operate until last January when the provincial government gave it a $10,000 grant. Subsequently, the city of Victoria gave $4,900, Saanich, $2,700, Oak Bay, $1,200, and Esqui-mo, $1,000. Central Saanich, asked to contribute $200, made no grant.

The board recently appointed Brahm Wiesman, formerly assistant director of planning for the city of Edmonton, as permanent planning director.

Major H. C. Holmes, Victoria realtor was recently elected chairman of the Capital Region Planning Board, succeeding F. W. Nicholls, provincial government representative.

Other members include Councillor S. P. Birley of Oak Bay, Councillor J. E. Carey of Esquimalt, and Mrs. Grace Shaw of Saanich.

The board recently decided to establish permanent offices at 918 Government Street.

"We saw him, all right," they said. "We're just trying to figure out what kind of thing he is." Mr. Daley reported that only two of the 22 men in his shop expressed any doubt in the story of the two fishermen, who caught two spring salmon despite their experience.

Land Nears, Adventurer Gets Excited

This is the 13th in a series of articles by William Willis, 61-year-old New Yorker who sailed alone on a raft 6,400 miles across the Pacific from Peru to Pago Pago. Today: First sight of land.

BY WILLIAM WILLIS

(Copyright, 1954, By William Willis. World Rights Reserved)
NEW YORK (NANA)—Tomorrow I will see land! Many times, while crossing the vast emptiness of the Pacific, I had wondered what they would be like: the first land and first voices. Now at least one of these events was almost here.

Since leaving Peru on the 6,400-mile voyage to Samoa, it would be the first land I'd seen in 88 days. Sailing to Flint Island had not been part of my plan. Alone on my raft, I had carefully moved well south of the Galapagos Islands off the coast of South America, and then 100 miles or more north of the Marquesas Islands, at the 4,300-mark on my voyage. To me, islands represented danger—the peril of coral reefs which could break the Seven Little Sisters to pieces, and perhaps maroon me. Besides, Flint, my charts showed, was only an uninhabited speck in the vast ocean.

Short of Water

But I had been moving steadily toward Flint in spite of myself. Since taking a southwesterly course after passing the Marquesas, I had run into frequent calms. While the sultry air oppressed me and the raft snapped back and forth in the dead swells, I moved at the mercy of the South Equatorial Current. The Humboldt Current had been left far behind by now—and traveled only about 10 miles in a whole day. In this way, Flint had come into my path.

To avoid the island cleanly, I would have had to steer well northward, and this would have taken me away from Samoa, which lay to the south.

But, in spite of the dangers, I felt three internal forces driving me to Flint. I'd been on very short fresh-water supply rations since August 6, when I lost most of my supply. Drinks of sea water had helped a great deal, and my health had remained sound. But still, I would have liked to drink all the fresh water I could, to fill my cans and basins and probably even one of my two kerosene drums. The fuel was of little use since my stoves had failed.

Then, perhaps I could also get some coconuts. After the long spell on a diet of cereal, sugar and fish, I dreamed of food—not of steaks, as one might expect. My thoughts lingered on fresh fruit, especially apples and

District Faces Great Upsurge In Population

BY LAWRIE JOSLIN

Population of the Victoria area is expected to double itself within the next 30 years, with the population of Saanich exceeding that of the city within 20 or 25 years, according to a report prepared by J. W. Wilson, Vancouver town planning consultant.

The 64-page report, released officially today by the Capital Region Planning Board for whom it was prepared, is one of the most interesting and exhaustive surveys ever made of the Victoria area's past, present and anticipated future development.

The area population is expected to grow at the steady rate of some 3,000 to 4,000 a year.

Growth of the capital region, according to the report, is likely to change present transportation patterns between the Island and Mainland and see wide use of helicopter travel.

Street traffic problems are expected to increase along with further rapid urbanization of rural areas.

Most of the new residential development is expected to occur in Saanich because Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt have only a limited amount of space available.

The population of Saanich may be greater than Victoria's in 20 or 25 years if present trends continue, the report states.

RAPID EXPANSION

Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt "are expected to experience steady but moderate growth, whereas Saanich can anticipate even more rapid expansion than it has during the past few years," the report declares.

"Central Saanich and the unorganized areas will probably also have an accelerated growth, though not to the same extent as Saanich," the report continues.

There are now 48,000 breadwinners working in the capital city region, according to the report.

One out of every four in the working force is employed by some branch of the provincial or federal government. Barring major changes in administrative policies the civil service is expected to provide an expanding source of employment in the region.

This degree of dependence on government employment, the report states, makes the Victoria area second only to

The Ottawa area where about 32 per cent of the labor force works for government.

The large number of persons drawing incomes from investments is another important factor in the economic structure of the capital city region.

CONTINUING INFLEX

"It is obvious therefore that the future of the capital region depends primarily on the development of both Canada and British Columbia and on the activities and policies of their government," the report asserts.

"To a less extent it depends on a continuing influx of retired people, on tourist trade, and on manufacturing industries which, directly or indirectly, utilize nearby raw materials," the report explains.

It goes on to explain that forest products, shipbuilding and other industries, along with agriculture, will continue to play a major role in the economic development of this area.

Some 16 per cent of the capital region's 123,000 people are more than 65 years old, compared with 11 per cent for B.C. and 8 per cent for Canada, the report says. In 1951, some 13 per cent of all males were listed as retired, compared with 9 per cent for B.C.

The average family in this area comprises three persons, smaller than the B.C. average of 3.3 persons. Related to this is the relatively low proportion of school children which is 18 per cent compared with 21 per cent for the whole province.

Report Described 'Mainly History'

The Wilson report on the capital planning region is an "excellent first step," but "it's mainly history," representatives of Greater Victoria municipal councils said last night.

"The question is, where do we go from here?" commented Reeve F. G. Norris of Oak Bay. That question may be answered when Braham Wiesman, planning director of the Capital Region Planning Board, using the Wilson survey as a basis, completes a master plan for future development of the region. This is expected to take six or seven months.

Acting Mayor Frank Mulliner and Reeves of the three adjacent municipalities agreed James W. Wilson of the Lower Mainland Regional Planning Board had done "a first-class job" in his survey of the capital region.

SOME DOUBTS

There were some doubts, however, about his predictions of population growth.

"I think he flatters Saanich," said Reeve Joseph Casey of Mr. Wilson's prediction that by 1978 Saanich will have surpassed Victoria in population.

He said Saanich currently is gaining about 3,000 people a year, with 600 new homes built in 1954.

CLOSE TO CAPACITY

Reeve Norris said he thought Mr. Wilson's forecast of a population of 19,200 for Oak Bay by 1981 was close to the municipality's total capacity.

New subdivisions now being planned will house about 4,500 people, he said. The maximum population, unless present properties are resubdivided, would be about 20,000.

Reeve A. C. Wurtels of Esquimalt saw a "fine basis for future planning," but he said he found no reference to Esquimalt's parks.

He said Mr. Wilson apparently had overlooked Saxe Point Park, Memorial Park and Bullen Park.

Ottawa Indicates Ripple Rock Job

BY TOM GREEN
Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Cabinet spokesmen said yesterday the federal government is expected to announce within the next 10 days or two weeks its decision on removal of Ripple Rock.

The chances of the government deciding to proceed with the removal project are said to be "pretty good" and it is predicted that the method "will lean toward tunneling."

Ripple Rock, in Seymour Narrows at the northeast shoulder of Vancouver Island, is a menace to navigation and has claimed several ships as its victims. Previous attempts to remove the rock, in the racing waters of the channel, have failed.

OTHER CHANNELS

Although other, longer channels wind between the Island and the Mainland in the area, their degree of usefulness to shipping is indicated by their names: Upper Rapids, Arran Rapids, Yuculta Rapids, Surge Narrows, Hole in the Wall.

A month ago a government-appointed committee composed of representatives of the National Resources Council, the department of engineering of the University of British Columbia, the federal public works department and the federal transport department made a report to the government.

The report said Ripple Rock could be removed by tunneling, or an attack on the top. The report's view was that both attacks were possible.

Sloan Gives Union Award

Freight Subsidy Urged for Grain

OTTAWA (CP)—The politically touchy proposal of a subsidy on western grain freight rates was made Monday by Chief Justice Gordon Sloan of British Columbia in awarding non-operating railway employees a $7,000,000-a-year segment of their fringe benefit demands.

The chief justice, cabinet-appointed arbitrator in the long dispute that threatened a general rail strike last summer, gave the 145,000 workers a fraction of what they asked, granting only partially two of their four requests.

BLAMES RATES

He said the railways cannot afford to meet their demands in the face of declining revenues; and he blamed the decline in large part on "distortion and imbalance" of the freight rate structure caused by the low "Crow's Nest Pass" rates on export grain moving through the West.

He suggested a subsidy to spread "some fair share" at least of this burden across the national economy.

Increased freight rates now are not the answer to rising railway costs, the arbitrator said. These have been used to cover previous postwar increases in the wage bill of the carriers.

MAKE IT WORSE

But with competition stiffening, Chief Justice Sloan said, higher rates would probably only "tend to increase the present imbalance and expose greater areas of railway traffic to outside competition."

While his observations on the Crow's Nest rates went outside his terms of reference and constituted only an opinion—he was empowered just to write contract terms for the disputants—they will unquestionably stir up political repercussions.

A Vancouver newspaper said last night an agreement among four gas and pipeline companies to enable construction of a $400,000,000 natural-gas pipeline from the B.C. Peace River area to New Mexico is to be signed within two days.

Adrift 6,400 Miles

Land Nears, Adventurer Gets Excited

This is the 13th in a series of articles by William Willis, 61-year-old New Yorker who sailed alone on a raft 6,400 miles across the Pacific from Peru to Pago Pago. Today: First sight of land.

BY WILLIAM WILLIS

Copyright, 1954, by William Willis. World Rights Reserved.

NEW YORK (NANA)—Tomorrow I will see land! Many times, while crossing the vast emptiness of the Pacific, I had wondered what they would be like: the first land and first voices. Now at least one of these events was almost here.

Since leaving Peru on the 6,400-mile voyage to Samoa, it would be the first land I'd seen in 88 days.

Sailing to Flint Island had not been part of my plan. Alone on my raft, I had carefully moved well south of the Galapagos Islands off the coast of South America, and then 100 miles or more north of the Marquesas Islands, at the 4,300-mark on my voyage. To me, islands represented danger—the peril of coral reefs which could break the Seven Little Sisters to pieces, and perhaps maroon me. Besides, Flint, my charts showed, was only an uninhabited speck in the vast ocean.

Short of Water

But I had been moving steadily toward Flint in spite of myself. Since taking a southwesterly course after passing the Marquesas, I had run into frequent calms. While the sultry air oppressed me and the raft snapped back and forth in the dead swells, I moved at the mercy of the South Equatorial Current. The Humboldt Current had been left far behind by now—and traveled only about 10 miles in a whole day. In this way, Flint had come into my path.

To avoid the island cleanly, I would have had to steer well northward, and this would take me away from Samoa, which lay to the south.

But, in spite of the dangers, I felt three internal forces driving me to Flint. I'd been on very short fresh water supply rations since August 6, when I lost most of my supply. Drinks of sea water had helped a great deal, and my health had remained sound. But still, I would have liked to drink all the fresh water I could, to fill my cans and basins and probably even one of my two kerosene drums. The fuel was of little use since my stoves had failed.

Then, perhaps I could also get some coconuts. After the long spell on a diet of cereal, sugar and fish, I dreamed of food—but not of steaks, as one might expect. My thoughts lingered on fresh fruit, especially apples and

District Faces Great Upsurge In Population

BY LAWRIE JOSLIN

Population of the Victoria area is expected to double itself within the next 30 years, with the population of Saanich exceeding that of the city within 20 or 25 years, according to a report prepared by J. W. Wilson, Vancouver town planning consultant.

The 64-page report, released officially today by the Capital Region Planning Board for whom it was prepared, is one of the most interesting and exhaustive surveys ever made of the Victoria area's past, present and anticipated future development.

The area population is expected to grow at the steady rate of some 3,000 to 4,000 a year.

Growth of the capital region, according to the report, is likely to change present transportation patterns between the Island and Mainland and see wide use of helicopter travel.

Street traffic problems are expected to increase along with further rapid urbanization of rural areas.

Most of the new residential development is expected to occur in Saanich because Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt have only a limited amount of space available.

The population of Saanich may be greater than Victoria's in 20 or 25 years if present trends continue, the report states.

Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt "are expected to experience steady but moderate growth, whereas Saanich can anticipate even more rapid expansion than it has during the past few years," the report declares.

A huge forestry project which will include a $65,000,000 pulp mill at Kitimat and a highway from Kitimat to Terrace has been given conditional approval by the provincial government.
